WILLING TO LEARN

CONFIDENT

RELIABLE

Self-evaluation

I would consider myself to be very comfortable with technology.

Of course I use different applications, but besides social media I only use a few tools.

In the world of programming, I feel very comfortable in the frontend, while I do realize that there are stronger partners in the backend.

Goals

Currently she's working on another book. She would like to finish it in the next few months.

She always wants her applications to be a reference for her skills. Her applications are known to be tailored to fit the needs of her customers and she wants to keep it that way.

During programming and making changes to applications, she appreciates quick and efficient solutions.

Motivation

A bit of reading on weekends.

Get inspired during walks outdoors.

Getting good feedback for my work.

Annoyances

Errors in plugins, which slow down her work.

Generally, she doesn't like to use plugins, which only offer limited customizability. She doesn't feel comfortable with the limits imposed by compromises.
